Statement from the Massachusetts Board of Rabbis Regarding the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Phase 1 Reopening Plan for Houses of Worship

Jewish tradition teaches that the value of pikuach nefesh, saving a life, comes before all else. The state’s new safety standards raise many questions for clergy, lay leaders, and synagogues. We know our synagogue members are saddened that we cannot gather together for communal worship. We understand the disappointment when life cycle events cannot happen as planned. At the same time, the health and safety of synagogue members, clergy, and staff must be the preeminent Jewish value as we chart a new way forward.

In these days of yearning to be together, we recognize that in other states gathering to worship has hastened the spread of Covid-19 and could jeopardize the progress of these long weeks of being at home. Throughout history, the Jewish community has placed the needs of the kahal and the greater community above all else. Protecting those most vulnerable and ensuring there is no further spread of disease is of the utmost importance and a cornerstone of our Jewish values.

Therefore, the Massachusetts Board of Rabbis maintains that synagogues and Jewish institutions should only physically reopen their spaces when they can be assured of the well-being of their members, especially the most vulnerable amongst us. When the time does come to physically reopen, we are committed to implementing all health and safety best practices as guided by medical experts.

At this challenging moment, we also call upon our government officials to prioritize human life above all else. We do not want our family, friends and neighbors to become statistics. Just as we will rely on expert medical opinions as we proceed with extreme caution, we encourage the leaders of our Commonwealth to do the same.

Finally, we remain committed to all those in our community impacted by the shut-down and Covid-19. We will continue to care for and support those in need and to support our communal organizations.

We pray for the health and safety of our community and our friends and neighbors as we take the next steps forward in responding to this unprecedented communal crisis.

With appreciation for all that you’re doing during these trying times,

The Massachusetts Board of Rabbis Executive Committee:

“Staying Connected During a Difficult Time”

Writing this June bulletin letter on Monday, May 18th, tomorrow will be the first day of our Massachusetts governor’s “phase one” plan toward reopening our state’s economy. Included in phase one is the allowance, under very strict controls, of the reopening of houses of worship. For the time being, Rabbi Mark and I, along with our president, Steve Silverman, have decided not to return to on-site worship – both because the necessary conditions to make such on-site worship safe are too onerous, and also because most of our congregants, being seniors, fall into a category of “high risk.” It just doesn’t make sense to take this risk. I am fervently hoping that the rate of coronavirus infections will go down to almost nothing by summer’s end – so that we will be able to hold our High Holy Day celebrations in our temple sanctuary come fall (and I am hoping that by that time the law will not require me, as it would during this “phase one” period, to chant the services wearing a mask!).

If we are able to be together in our sanctuary come fall, there will surely be some changes from the way we usually do things – with families or couples being widely spaced-out across our sanctuary, perhaps wearing masks, with the possibility of no socializing allowed after the services, no break-fast on Yom Kippur. I know we all hate to contemplate the loss of these social elements of our holidays (indeed they are just as important as the ritual elements), but the bottom line for the Jewish people has always been to choose life. You can be sure that we will follow whatever practices seem most likely to promote overall health and well-being for our community. At this early date we just cannot predict what September and October will bring.

The period leading up to and including the holidays of Rosh HaShanah and Yom Kippur is a time of taking a “soul-accounting” (called cheshbon ha-nefesh in Hebrew). Throughout the media, I find priests, pastors and rabbis, environmentalists, public health experts and politicians – and of course professional pundits – saying that this pandemic-period we are living through is a call to “soul-searching.” The agendas of these disparate groups of people may be quite different. Some may see an “angry God” as in biblical times sending us a plague as a warning/punishment for “sinning” in some way that may have nothing to do with the scientific cause-and-effect of this virus.

Others may see a scientific relationship between the ever-increasing human expansion into wilderness areas, with the unfortunate consequence of humans coming into contact with viruses carried by certain animals. Educators have written about how the virus highlights and deepens the inequities in our society as children try to continue their education “remotely”: students in poor families, frequently without computers or wi-fi access, sometimes having to take care of their younger siblings while their parents also try to work from home, or who work outside the home in essential services – these children fall behind. We always knew that the distribution of wealth and justice in our society was not wholly “merit-based” – but the pandemic brings this truth into starker relief.

And then there are those who look on the “bright side” of this time with less burning of fossil fuels, pointing to clearing skies and cleaner air all over the globe – saying that this is an intimation of how things could be permanently for the planet after the pandemic, if only nations across the globe would earnestly commit themselves to pursuing environmentally-friendly sources of energy. I would like to point out another bright side of this time of “sheltering at home”: we have had the joy of the presence of certain attendees at our TBE Zoom-services who do not live in the immediate area, people we usually only get to see a few times a year, if that. And for those of you who have joined us in these online services, you have witnessed how our son, Lev, has stepped into a more active role, both helping out with the technology, and gustily singing all the prayers along with Rabbi Mark and me. Between the three of us, we form a couch-choir (the Elber-Brown Family Singers)!

Well, I suppose even the most difficult situations can have silver linings – but we are eager to get back together as soon as it is possible to do so without jeopardizing anyone’s health. I know that Rabbi Mark joins me in thanking all of you for your patience, warmth, and supportiveness as we work to keep our Temple Beth El community vibrant and connected during this uniquely trying time. Please know that Shabbat and weekday services, Hebrew classes, and our Tisha b’Av observance (in late July) will continue to be offered online through the summer (see “News and Notes”), and that you may always reach us by email (look for the “contact us” button on the TBE website) or by calling the Temple office and leaving a message.

Wishing you all a safe and healthy summer,

Cantor Shoshana

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Please note that the Annual Meeting of our congregation that is normally held in early June has been postponed until it is safe to have a large number of our members safely gathered together. We will keep you advised.

At this point all we can plan on is to continue as we are until it has been deemed safe to once again open our doors, particularly in light of the demographics of our congregation. We will continue to offer services via Zoom Cloud Meetings for the foreseeable future. We are having a board meeting on June 10th and will hopefully decide then how best to reopen safely. The good news is that we have plenty of room to spread out, but there are still a number of other factors to consider, and many preparations to make before we can reopen.

We also are not sure how we will be able to offer our High Holiday services. The first day of Rosh Hashanah falls on September 19th this year. As we get closer, and depending on guidance from Governor Baker and the Board of Rabbis, we will determine if we can still hold regular services in our sanctuary, with people spaced well apart to allow for social distancing, or if we should somehow stream the service, or present it in some other way. As soon as we know, we will let you know, via email and a direct mailing. Please keep an eye out for more information.

We have good news on one front -- we were able to secure a significant Payroll Protection loan through the CARES act to continue to pay our employees while we are closed. We expect most if not all of the loan to be forgiven, and the interest rate for any balance will be just 1%. Our next project is to figure out how to complete the multi-page form requesting loan forgiveness. As our BankFive representative, who has been extremely helpful through the whole process, said, the government never makes anything easy!

I wish I had better news, but for now we just have to be patient and err on the side of caution. We value the health and welfare of our congregants above all else. In the meantime, we will carry on as we are.

I wish you and your families a healthy, safe and enjoyable summer.

Steve Silverman
President

Sisterhood President's Message

Hello everybody! I hope you are all safe and well. It has been a tough spring. This virus has got the world in a tizzy. Let's pray that summer brings a little normalcy back to all our lives.

It is unfortunate, but we will have to hold off on Sisterhood's annual paid-up membership luncheon. With everything that's going on, it's impossible to plan an event at this time. But don't despair, next year we will do it up extra special.

So until the fall, stay healthy and safe.

Libby Cohen

TBE News & Notes

We have been very lucky thus far throughout this time of Covid-19 that our TBE community has for the most part been healthy – many thanks to everyone for cooperating with our “distance”- davening (praying) and learning, and for the help that I know many of you are giving to one another, calling one another, picking up groceries for those who cannot safely go shopping, etc. Over the summer, please join our online services, and get in touch via the TBE office (or look for the “contact” link on the TBE website). Rabbi Mark and I would be happy to hear from you, and will be sure to call you back. The only summer activity beyond Monday, Thursday, and Shabbat services and classes will be the Erev Tisha b’Av service, which will fall on Wednesday July 29th at 8 PM. We expect this service to be online (on Zoom). You will receive a link in your email inviting you to join us.

In need of a good book? Alas, no “Sunday Afternoons at the Jewish Movies” this summer! So instead, I want to offer to be a “book gopher” for those of you who love to read REAL BOOKS (not downloads!) from our TBE Library. Here’s how it would work: Please call the TBE office or get in touch via email asking for me, the cantor, to call you (make sure to leave the best number to reach you). I will find out what kind of books you like, then go over to the TBE library, see what is there that fits that description, and call you and see if you would like me to check those books out for you. I would be happy to deliver them to you if you live in Fall River, Somerset, or Swansea. Otherwise, we can arrange for you to pick them up from the TBE office.

Wanting to donate to alleviate the local pain due to the pandemic?

On my most recent United Interfaith Action Zoom call, I learned about the great work and generosity of various churches and other groups who are responding to the real need in our area. I am impressed by the unstinting efforts of these good people to help those in need during this difficult time. If you would like to learn more and/or donate to the United Interfaith Action’s (UIA) COVID-19 Emergency Response Fund, I urge you to contact them via their website: <https://www.unitedinterfaithaction.org/donate>.

You can also mail checks to: United Interfaith Action, 7 Pearl Street, Taunton, MA 02780. Please note “Covid Response Fund.”

For more information, please contact UIA Staff, Andrea Sheppard Lomba, andrea.uia@mcan.us or Sandra Carreiro, sandra.uia@mcan.us.
