Why Pray?

As I write this column, in the middle of March 2021, there is so much in the news at large that is clamoring for my attention. What does a member of the Jewish clergy think about whether or not the New York Governor should resign? What should the Jewish community do to speak out/take action against violence aimed towards Asians and Asian-Americans? What should the Jewish stance be towards the renewed crush of would-be immigrants on our Southern border? Should we or should we not withdraw all remaining U.S. troops from Afghanistan; what will happen to Afghani women and girls? How can we encourage more people to listen to the findings of science in making their decisions about getting a coronavirus vaccine, and about wearing masks in public – and in heeding the recommendations about moving our world towards less use of fossil fuels? And what about the upcoming elections in Israel – will this nation that is so important to Jews the world over continue to remain a vibrant democracy?

This is, of course, just the tip of the iceberg of important issues that could engage all or most of one's attention. But then we have issues closer to home: what about the health of our own Jewish community here at Temple Beth El of Fall River? In three years, G!d willing, we should be able to celebrate the 100th anniversary since the formation of "Congregation Beth El" in 1924. (Our first synagogue building, moved into in 1927, was a renovated wooden former church which, after only five months, was burned to the ground in the "great fire" of 1928). Our community has had its ups and downs in terms of numbers, but for the most part, in the last few decades, our membership numbers have mirrored the Jewish demographics of the Greater Fall River area.

As surely you all know who are reading this bulletin, Jews prospered in our area during the time when Fall River's mills were still churning out fabric and clothing, and when other Jews moved here to prosper in related industries. Frequently the owners and foremen of these industries were Jewish. They did well for themselves, and were generous to Temple Beth El – we are lucky for that! But for the most part their children, who were able to go to highly-respected colleges and universities, moved away to pursue their careers and start their families elsewhere, and so we missed out on the "dividends" (this next generation's presence that would otherwise have enriched our Jewish communal life).

This story follows the pattern of many factory-, mill-, and mining-towns across our nation. The film Nomadland, which recently won awards for Best Film and Best Director at the Golden Globes, and is nominated for six Oscars, tells the story of Fern, a woman who left the northern Nevada town where she and her husband had made their home when the town's gypsum factory closed down its operations. The population of the real town, Empire, Nevada, subsequently dwindled so much that they lost their right to have a zip code! Certainly the closing of most of the mills in Fall River (many now being renovated as condos and apartments) has not had quite this drastic an effect on our area. We are still here! But the population of Jews under age fifty, those still raising children, are by and large missing. Some of this missing population may have married non-Jews and decided not to continue to engage with Judaism. Some may have decided that marrying and/or having children was not for them. But all over the country, there is a surge of populations gathering around large urban areas, while the medium-sized cities and small towns are thinning out.

Of course those of us who are still here are still important. Our Jewish lives should not diminish just because we are silver-haired. In fact, in many traditions around the world this age is precisely the age when people are thought to be most full of wisdom and open to spiritual endeavors. When we no longer have to work nine to five, or be engaged in diapering and midnight feedings, we have time to turn our attention to spiritual and philosophical questions. What is the meaning of our existence? What wisdom does the Jewish tradition have to offer us about our life, our death? How can we get the most out of our "golden years?"

We are all looking forward to coming out of this "covid cocoon," joining together in community in person again. But even before that time comes, you can still join our communal gatherings for study and for prayer via our online Zoom portals. Song, prayer, study, discussion – these are lifelines at any time, but especially when you are cut off from so much of "normal" pre-pandemic life. Many recent medical studies have found that having frequent social interactions, owning a pet, walking faster, and regularly engaging in communal religious worship are all factors that may increase happiness, reduce stress, and prolong our lives (by up to five years!). If you have not engaged in any of our offerings at Temple Beth El recently, I strongly encourage you to give us a try. We are always delighted to add new faces to our "regulars."

Wishing you all good health, and hoping to see you online and in person soon!

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

I hope you all had a safe and happy Passover. I also hope that next year we will once again be able to celebrate Pesach together, as we have for so many years past. It is hard to believe I said the same thing a year ago!

It seems like more and more people I speak to have received both of their Covid vaccinations, and hopefully before too much longer everyone who wants to be vaccinated will be able to do so. While the variants are still a worry, we as a country do seem to be making great strides toward making it safe for all of us to come out into the world again.

We were unable to have a board meeting in March, but we will have one in April and discuss the possibility of reopening the Temple for services, along with a proposed time frame and any new procedures we will need to put in place. Thank you for your patience while we continue to put the health and safety of our congregation above all else.

Just before the High Holidays we hired a roofer, Michael Almeida, to repair the roof over the sanctuary foyer. There were many leaks and nearly countless broken tiles, but Michael believes he has stopped the leaks in that area of the building. As he is also a skilled carpenter, he has been able to repair the ceiling in the foyer, and is now working on the walls in the south tower. The next project is to find the leak that has damaged the walls in both the sanctuary and the vestry. He seems to think it is a broken pipe, which will require some investigation. Water leaks can be very tricky to isolate, but the one thing we know for sure is that water never runs uphill, so we know that the leak is somewhere high up in the building. Once it is found and fixed we will be able to repair the damage to the walls. It seems like the leaks never end, but we are trying to address the most serious problems before they get worse.

For now we will continue on the current path, and hope that spring is not just a date on the calendar!

Sisterhood President's Message

Here comes April, and Spring is finally here. As I'm writing this, we are enjoying some lovely weather. The last couple of days it has hit 60 degrees. Boy oh boy does it feel good. I hope this is a preview of coming attractions.

At this time, we are in the process of finishing up with our Passover menus. Matzoh, horseradish, brisket, fried chicken and jellies. I've made several versions of fried matzah and I love it.

I hope everyone who wants to get the Covid vaccine has been successful in securing it. Hopefully this will bring us some normalcy.

So, until next month, stay well and keep moving forward.

*Libby Cohen
Sisterhood President*

TBE News & Notes

Please join us to observe Yom HaShoah (Holocaust Memorial Day) on Thursday, April 8th (on Zoom) at 5:30 pm. You will be receiving a link via email, or you may contact the Temple office to receive one if you somehow miss that communication.

At our Kabbalat Shabbat service on Friday, April 16th we will celebrate our "Tribute to Israel" in connection with Yom HaAtzma'ut (which falls this year on Thursday, April 15th). Please join us at the usual service time of 5:30 pm (on Zoom).

Monday morning adult education (10:30 - 12 noon, on Zoom): We recently completed Jonathan Hirsch's thought-provoking book, The Harlot by the Side of the Road, which we read hand in hand with the original (and surprising!) stories he focuses on from the Hebrew Bible. Our discussions were lively!

At present, we have embarked upon a virtual journey across Israel with the reading of Amos Oz's 1983 book of essays, In the Land of Israel. Although by the time you read this, we will have already begun, you can still jump on board at any time (contact the office for a link, and to find out where we are in the book). To paraphrase what one reviewer has written about this book:

Notebook in hand, Amos Oz traveled throughout Israel and the West Bank in the early 1980s to talk with workers, soldiers, religious zealots, aging pioneers, new immigrants, desperate Arabs, and visionaries, asking them questions. What he heard is set down here in those distinctive voices, alongside Oz's observations and reflections. A classic insider's view of a land with a complex past and challenging present and future.

Looking ahead...Shavuot begins on Sunday night, May 16th. As we did last year, we will hold a virtual (Zoom) Tikkun (study session) from 8:00-9:30 that evening. Stay tuned for more details in next month's bulletin!
