

Happy Earth Day!

Pine cone and pine needles on a bed of moss along the Mowry Path, Freetown/Fall River State Forest, Fall River

I wanted to write this week about how recent events in our nation’s history are intertwined with our relationship to the environment, and what light certain Jewish teachings shed on the nexus of these things, but having completed that task, I am afraid that some people might find what I have written too “political.” Therefore all I will say here is that I want to wish you (and our Mother Earth!) a Happy Earth Day and a Shabbat Shalom.

(If you wish to read my original installment of Week 58 of these Corona Chronicles, please feel free to contact me at cantorshoshana@gmail.com and I will be happy to email you a copy.)
