“A New Year’s Journey Through the Torah”

I am writing this at the end of the holiday period which concludes with Simchat Torah during which we complete our annual reading of the Torah and immediately embark on that journey again. There are five Shabbatot (Sabbaths) in this month of November, and the Torah portions, all from the beginning of the book of Genesis, cover Noah and the Flood through the early years of Jacob. These are stunning portions filled with some of the most classic stories of the Bible. They are deceptively simple, by which I mean the episodes feel very familiar to us and we think we understand them quite well, but actually there is a great deal of complexity beneath the simple surface layer of the narrative as it appears in the Torah. That’s part of the reason that our sages over the centuries found so much to say about them.

Our sages understood the Torah as a repository for all the life wisdom one could attain, as a well known rabbinic statement in the Talmud phrased it: “turn it and turn it, for everything is in it” i.e. it is inexhaustible in its wisdom and insight. The book of Proverbs in the Bible says: It (the Torah) is a Tree of Life for those who hold fast to it and all who uphold it find deep happiness.” We have numerous words for “happiness” or “joy” in Hebrew – among others there are those that refer to temporary happiness, that is happiness that’s the result of a specific joyous occasion such as a wedding, bar/bat mitzvah, or a holiday (“Simkha” in Hebrew) and then there’s the deep happiness that one can experience in a life that is meaningful and fulfilling (“Osher” in Hebrew).

In our engagement with the early Torah portions of Genesis we encounter again the very human characters that fill these portions – both the non-Jewish ones, such as Noah, in addition to our patriarchs and matriarchs. Each person is depicted primarily through their actions, usually in a brief number of verses. The Torah almost never describes a person’s inner feelings. However, the sages of the Talmud and Midrash often do describe the psychological states underlying these characters actions, in addition to fleshing out the actions themselves since they are generally described so concisely.

As an example, let us take the opening verse of the Torah portion named “Noakh” (the Hebrew for Noah) “These are the generations of Noah, Noah was a righteous person (a tzaddik); he was blameless in his generations; Noah walked with G!d.” Studying Torah trains us to be careful and critical readers in the sense of noticing the many nuances in the text. The opening phrase (“these are the generations...”) is fairly common in the Torah, especially in the book of Genesis in which many genealogies are mentioned. However the phrase is normally followed by a list of who begot whom. This opening verse diverges from that pattern. Any divergence from a typical pattern calls out for an explanation, i.e. what is it teaching by its change from the common formula? A collection of Midrashim on Genesis from the fifth century C.E. called Bereshit Rabbah (Bereshit is the Hebrew for the book of Genesis) explains the significance of this unusual verse. It teaches us that the essence of the “generations” (i.e. offspring) of the righteous are their good deeds, as it says in the book of Proverbs (10:7): “the memory of the righteous shall be for a blessing” (zekher tzaddik livrakha).

The next segment of the verse says that Noah was a righteous person in his generations. The sages naturally inquired as to the significance of this phrase too. Some interpreted it as implying great praise. If Noah was able to be righteous and blameless while living among people who were utterly corrupt, he must have been quite a tzaddik (righteous person). Others interpreted it as implying that he was great only in comparison with those corrupt people of his generations, but if he had lived in the time of Abraham, he would not have been seen as all that special.

The comparison with Abraham is a natural one because Abraham, who makes his debut at the end of the portion Noakh, is the next main figure spoken of in the Torah. How do they compare as people and as leaders? Abraham is informed of a mini-version of the destruction that Noah would be witness to. Abraham is told that G!d will destroy the towns of Sodom and Gomorrah because of the utter corruption in those cities. What did Noah do when he was told that the earth and life upon it would be destroyed? He built his ark and took his family upon it and the animals two by two so they could start over again. What did Abraham do under similar circumstances? He argued with G!d asking what if there are fifty righteous people in the towns, would you destroy the righteous with the wicked? Abraham had the holy chutzpah to continue arguing with G!d saying : “Shall the Judge of all the earth not do justice?,” what if there are forty five righteous people, forty, etc.

If we pause for a moment to look at the meaning of the names of Noah and Abraham, that also tells us something. Noakh means “comfortable,” “convenient,” or “pleasant.” On the other hand, Abraham, whose original name was Abram (Avram in Hebrew) means “high (or supreme) father.” Abraham was a true leader, not just taking care of himself and his immediate family, but caring for people in general, willing to take risks for the benefit of others. The rabbis noted that though the Torah states that Noah walked “with G!d,” when referring to Abraham, the Torah states that Abraham walked “before G!d” which they inferred as implying his greater leadership qualities and spiritual insights in comparison to those of Noah. May we find inspiration and new insights in our journey through the Torah in 5780.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

I want to thank everyone who worked so hard to make our holiday season so successful. Rabbi Mark, Cantor Shoshana and our Religion committee did a fantastic job with the services. I received many compliments! George Haire worked long hours to be sure everything was ready for all of the many services and events, which included lots of shopping and food prep. Matthew Botelho did a fantastic job on the sanctuary, making the many wood surfaces gleam. Judy Morgenstern and Norm Bolski helped coordinate all of the aliyot and English readers. Thank you to our Torah holders, ushers and readers. Thanks to Libby, the Events committee, Sisterhood, the Bolskis, Fran Cohen and George for planning and preparing the many events in the vestry, including the Break Fast and Simchas Torah supper. Thanks to Elaine Weiss-Reback for chairing the Flower Fund, without which we wouldn't have had such gorgeous flowers on the bimah. Thanks to Marie, Smitty and anyone else who helped, and to those who just came and enjoyed our special season of services and events.

Coming right up we have our special guest, Morton Dean, who will be showing his movie "American Medevac" on Sunday, November 3rd at 2 pm. Please plan to come, and bring some friends! After that is the Ruderman Shabbaton-Weekend November 8th - 10th, with Rabbi Ron Koas discussing L'Dor VaDor, and capped off with a showing of the film "G.I. Jews." It should be a very interesting weekend, so I hope you can join us.

Sisterhood President's Message

Happy November everyone! I hope you are all ready for a busy month, as we have many things planned for our members.

To begin, we are looking forward to the Morton Dean visit on Sunday, November 3rd, at 2 pm. I urge you to come and bring your friends. This is shaping up to be an exciting event.

Next on the agenda is our annual Ruderman Weekend. This begins on Friday evening November 8th at 5:30 pm, with services and guest speaker, Rabbi Ron Koas. It then culminates with our Sunday morning breakfast, honoring our Jewish war veterans. Please make a reservation and join us. You don't want to miss this event!

Each of these affairs take a lot of planning, and would not be possible without the help of these folks: Anita and Norm Bolski, Elaine and Harvey Reback, Sylvia Eisner, Cantor Shoshana, Marie Twomey, Judy Morgenstern, George Haire and Beverly Solup. Let me not forget our President Steve Silverman. Their help and guidance are so important to me. I love working with them. I am so lucky to have them.

Last month was very busy with all our holidays. From Rosh Hashana to Simchat Torah, there were many people that worked to make them pleasurable. The Break Fast was a success, as was our Simchat Torah deli supper, thanks to the hard work of Norm and Anita Bolski, along with George Haire and his lovely sister. A big thank you, folks.

I must take this time to thank Elaine Reback for the wonderful job she did with the flower fund. She works hard to make sure our sanctuary looks beautiful and holiday festive. I also want to thank those folks who generously donated to this fund.

At this point I want to wish all our "snow birds" a safe and healthy winter. See you in the spring.

So until next month, stay connected by watching your E-mails for updates, and reading your bulletins.

TBE News & Notes

Well, the High Holidays were exciting, and what meant the most from my perspective was that this year very few people left services early! From my experiences in a variety of different synagogues, this is very unusual. Rabbi Mark and I did endeavor to keep down the length of the services, and I'm Rosh Chodesh Kislev. But I hope that it was also because we tried to keep things relevant and lively.

At the time that I am writing this to make the bulletin deadline, we have not yet celebrated Simchat Torah – but I want to give a shout out to Anita and Norman Bolski who provide us with a yummy deli dinner every Simchat Torah – thank you Norm, Anita, and of course George Haire!

And while I am issuing thank you's – I want to make sure to thank all of you who pitched in to make our fall holidays festive, freilekh, and meaningful – and to all who participated in doing readings, aliyot, leying Torah, chanting a haftarah, to those who helped the services run smoothly (especially Steve Silverman and Rick Schwartz), who opened and closed the ark, who made sure we had beautiful flowers on the bima, and that we were well-fed at the Break Fast. Thank you also to our Events Committee members who organized our fascinating talk in October by Shai Afsai on Benjamin Franklin and Mussar, and also the November 3rd event with Morton Dean – and who will be working hard to make the Ruderman Shabbaton Weekend (Nov. 8-10, see the cover for more info) an engaging one. Todah rabbah to all!

Thank you also to all who brought food to the temple for the Yom Kippur Food Drive. Rabbi Mark and I took over 20 grocery bags of food to United Neighbors of Fall River – the most ever! (And the Winter Coat Drive continues.)

Rabbi Mark and I want to wish a huge "Mazal Tov" to our newest member, Etta Rachel, (Vivian Ruby Cohen), daughter of Eric Cohen and Melissa Skolny, whose Simchat Bat (naming ceremony) we were so pleased to celebrate on Shabbat October 12th. What a lovely day that was!

Now that we are finally past the fall Jewish holidays (and also, Columbus Day), we will return to our normal adult education schedule (with the exception of no adult ed class on Monday Nov. 11, Veterans' Day). Rabbi Mark and I are looking forward to studying with you again!

Our November installment of "Sunday Afternoon at the Jewish Movies" will take place on Nov. 24th at 2 PM.

Alas, our October Nature Walk was cancelled due to gale-force winds! I look forward to seeing my hikers on the trail again come May.

SUNDAY AT THE JEWISH MOVIES

"On the Basis of Sex"

An inspiring and spirited true story of the young lawyer Ruth Bader Ginsburg as she teams with her husband Marty to bring a groundbreaking case before the U.S. Court of Appeals, overturning a century of gender discrimination. It is a fascinating look into what this fearless pioneer faced in her early years, always with the support of her husband, who was also a successful attorney.
